ECJC Musical Presented In Neshoba County

History was made Monday night, April 5, 1982, at the PHS Auditorium. There, for the first time, East Central Junior College presented its annual Spring musical at a site other than the campus. "Carousel," the 13th such musical, was enjoyed by a crowd of over 300 Neshoba Countians and was presented in cooperation with the PNC Arts Council. The event was deemed highly successful by both Arts Council members and the ECJC production staff.

The audience was greeted by Mayor Charles McClain, who then introduced ECJC president, Dr. C. V. Wright. Dr. Wright expressed his appreciation to those who made the event possible and to those in Neshoba County who aid in the success of the entire college.

The Rogers and Hammerstein musical was under the direction of Bruce Peterson. James Dykes was orchestra director; Marion Thorton was production accompanist; Ovid

Vickers was choreographer; and Larry Jackson served as vocal director. Joan Alawine of Union and David Reynolds of Louisville appeared in the leading roles of Julie and Billie. Other roles in the production made up of Philadelphians included: Carrie, portrayed by Terri Donald; Mrs. Mullin, played by Rhonda Rhodes; Starkeeper, portrayed by Scotty Goldman and Bascombe, played by Pete Bailey.

A special thanks goes out to those who aided Rebecca Stribling in preparing the delicious meal for the entire cast and production staff of "Carousel" before the performance.

The Arts Council would also like to thank Billye Ruth Lating and Mary Galberry for providing refreshments for everyone after the musical. Without the time and energy of these volunteer efforts, such services to our community would not be possible.
